

GET A NAME; GET A LIFE.

Life is more than outward packaging and looking good, it's good to look good but there should be proper priority placement and a balance struck between looking good and giving your life a meaning. Dressing all flamboyant and leading an extravagant life in the bid to impress or carve a name for yourself or 'feel among' at the expense of your carrier or academics is not life, there's more to life.

What you represent and what someone can pin to your name constitute a large proportion of what an individual is. All your beauty and glamour is meaningless if there's no brain or essence to who you are. Get a name; get a life. Get to know who you are and what you are good at and develop it. Use people's ignorance to make money, there's always opportunity everywhere, open your eyes to them and start affecting lives, think outside the box and do something unconventional and extraordinary. Create a standard for yourself before it's too late.
